

Presenting the Creative Project

Follow these steps in presenting your project to your group:

See the handout
"The Creative Project"

like emotional states,
daydreams, reveries, etc.

Write down notes about these questions, and bring them to your presentation. Bring this handout to the presentations

Everyone should give feedback to the presenter (go around the group).

- say what you liked about the project
- what stands out in your mind about the project or how the person did it?
- describe any similarities to your project and how you did it
- ask the presenter a question about his/her project
- does the project remind you of anything the person said during the semester?
- what do you think the project says about the person?
